3117 (enlarged)

Sokolov Nikolay Vasilievich, (1899 – 1980), was a career Red Army officer. Started service in 1919, actively participated in Civil War. Graduated from military engineer's school in 1922, and commander improvement courses in 1932. During WWII, distinguished himself in commanding critically important engineering works for Leningrad's "Road of Life", strategic crossings of Neva, Visla, Dnestr and Dnepr Rivers. During crossing of Visla River in August 3-5 1944, his regiment built a bridge and managed to transfer tanks and ammunitions across to the enemy's side, followed by two days of successfully repelling all the counter attacks. By decree of Sept. 23, 1944, "For outstanding leadership and skillful command of his pontoon-engineering regiment during crossing of Visla River and personal bravery" he was bestowed with the title of Hero of the Soviet Union, with GOLD HSU Star #1992 and Order of Lenin #10986.

After the war, continued to serve in the Soviet Army. Retired in 1954. Died on December 20, 1980.

Николай Соколов родился 23 апреля 1899 года в селе Акшут (ныне — Барышский район Ульяновской области). Получил среднее образование. Окончил Симбирскую чувашскую учительскую семинарию (1919). В 1919 году Соколов был призван на службу в Рабоче-крестьянскую Красную Армию. Участвовал в боях Гражданской войны. В 1922 году Соколов окончил военно-инженерные курсы в Самаре, в 1932 году — курсы усовершенствования командного состава. С января 1943 года — на фронтах Великой Отечественной войны, командовал 3-й понтонно-мостовой бригадой. Под его руководством она переправляла советские войска через Неву, Днепр, Случь, Горынь и Днестр, строила «дорогу жизни» под Ленинградом. Бригада Соколова особо отличилась во время форсирования Вислы. В период с 3 по 5 августа 1944 года части бригады построили наплавной мост, переправив танки, топливо и боеприпасы через реку. Когда немецкие войска попытались захватить переправу, бойцы бригады в течение двух суток отражали их атаки, удержав её.

Указом Президиума Верховного Совета СССР от 23 сентября 1944 года за «умелое руководство действиями понтонно-мостовой бригады при наведении переправы для танковой армии через Вислу и проявленные при этом личное мужество и героизм» полковник Николай Соколов был удостоен высокого звания Героя Советского Союза с вручением ордена Ленина и медали «Золотая Звезда» за номером 1992.

После окончания войны Соколов продолжил службу в Советской Армии. В 1954 году в звании генерал-майора он был уволен в запас. Проживал в Киеве. Умер 20 декабря 1980 года, похоронен на Лукьяновском военном кладбище Киева.

Маршал Федор Толбухин – освободитель Европы

В годы Второй мировой войны Красная Армия освободила семь европейских столиц: Берлин, Вену, Прагу, Будапешт, Бухарест, Варшаву, Белград и Софию. Войска 3-го Украинского фронта под командованием Федора Толбухина освободили три из них – столицы Румынии, Болгарии и Югославии. Вместе с войсками 2-го Украинского фронта участвовали в освобождении столиц Австрии и Венгрии. Такого числа европейских стран всего за полгода войны не прошел ни один полководец Второй мировой войны, кроме бывшего питерского бухгалтера, крестьянского сына и русского офицера – Федора Толбухина.

Армейскую службу он начал в 1915 году. Летом 1916-го ему довелось участвовать в знаменитом Брусилловском прорыве.

В период между двумя войнами Толбухин продолжил военную карьеру. В 1938 году он стал начальником штаба Закавказского военного округа.

С марта 1943 года Толбухин командующий Южного фронта. Осенью 44-го за ряд крупных операций Толбухин получил Маршальскую Звезду.

Осенью 44-го были освобождены восточная часть Югославии и ее столица Белград. В ходе двух следующих операций – Будапештской и Балатонской – войска 3-го Украинского фронта совместно с войсками 2-го Украинского фронта отразили последнее крупное наступление вермахта во Второй мировой войне. Наконец, в ходе Венской операции весной 1945 года Красная Армия разгромила немецкую группу армий "Юг".

В Вене блистательный боевой путь полководца Толбухина был завершен. Он умер в 1949 году в возрасте 55 лет. Он не оставил мемуаров, поэтому часто его называют "забытый маршал". Однако его имя носят улицы, площади, проспекты в городах по всей Европе.

During World War II, Fyodor Ivanovich Tolbukhin (1894-1949) served as Chief of Staff for the Crimean Front, 1941-1942, Assistant Commander of the Stalingrad Military District, Commander of the 58th Army, Commander of the Southern Front and Commander of the 3rd Ukrainian Front. On September 12, 1944 he was promoted to Marshal of the Soviet Union. Widely respected by both his fellow commanders and his men, Tolbukhin is considered one of the finest Soviet generals of World War II. Under his command, Bucharest, Sofia and Belgrade were liberated, while he took part in the liberation of Hungary and Austria. Decorated many times for bravery, Tolbukhin was the recipient of the Victory Order and Hero of the Soviet Union. After the war, he served as Commander-in-Chief of the Southern Group of Forces, which comprised the Balkan region. From January 1947 to his death, Tolbukhin was the commander of the Transcaucasus Military District.
